Abstract of the Disclosure

A dog training aid for use with a collar and leash is adapted to assist in controlling and promoting desired behavior. The training aid includes a generally bone-shaped body provided with openings at each end for receiving the collar therethrough, and correction posts projecting rearwardly from the body for contacting the dog's neck and indicating a need for behavior correction when tension is applied with the leash.